TREATS ILL AT SEA OVER RADIOPHONE

Chief Surgeon of Service Checks Influenza Aboard the Powhatan.

MT. SINAI UNIT RETURNS

Forty-five Medical Officers and 35 Nurses Cared for the Wounded at Vauclaire.

A consultation at sea by wireless telegraph and telephone was the feature of the trips of the transports Sterra and Powhatan, which arrived yesterday from France. Just after she left Bordeaux with 2,555 officers and men an epidemic of influenza developed aboard the Powhatan, and she returned and put ashore twenty-five patients most seriously affected.

When the ships were in the longi tude of the Amores and about fifteen miles apart the wireless telephone was substituted for the telegraph, used at a longer distance in the swapping of sentiments about the ill aboard the Powhatan, the influence having broken out afresh, with more than 100 cases. Lieut Commander A. E. Younie, Medical Corps, senjor, surgeon of the Sierra. cal Corps, senior surgeon of the Sierra cal Corps, senior surgeon of the Sierra, suggested over the phone treatment for the Powhatan's patients. One was close to death and the phoned prescription of Dr. Younie put him on the road to recovery. None of the ill died. Later the Sierra picked up a message from a British steamship that reported a member of her crew seriously ill, and Dr. Younkie, after getting the symptoms, told the ekipper what to do.
